Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114 was filed in this application after a decision by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences, but before the filing of a Notice of Appeal to the Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit or the commencement of a civil action. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114 and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the appeal has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114 and prosecution in this application has been reopened pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on October 18th, 2008 has been entered.

Claim Objections

Claim 16 is objected to because of the following informalities:

1. It appears the applicant intends to claim --A climbing tree stand including...-- rather than "In a climbing tree strand including...".
 2. Claim 16 is currently labeled as (Original) when it is clearly amended and should be labeled (Currently Amended).
- Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Prejean (US 6,988,588). Prejean discloses a climbing tree stand (figure 4) including a platform (20) and a pair of support arms (44) attached to the platform (figure 4), the climbing tree stand being for use by a user (figure 11) and comprising a pair of rigid foothold devices (44b; col. 4, lines 5-17) extending toward the platform (figure 4).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Prejean (US 6,988,588) in view of Curtis (US 2,057,013). Prejean discloses a climbing tree stand (figure 4) including a platform (20) and a pair of support arms (44) attached to the platform (figure 4), the climbing tree stand being for use by a user (figure 11) and comprising a pair of rigid foothold devices (44b; col. 4, lines 5-17) extending toward the platform (figure 4). Prejean does not disclose the foothold device to comprise a curved or clamping portion.

However, Curtis teaches a climbing platform (11) attachable to a vertical member (1), wherein the platform comprising a foothold device (14) comprising an arcuate portion (figure 1) and a clamping portion (15, 16), providing a more accurately shaped releasable foothold device that better matches shape of the top of a user's foot and can be released if the user needs to move the foothold aside.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the climbing tree stand of Prejean with foothold devices that include an arcuate portion and clamping portion as taught by Curtis in order to provide a more accurately shaped releasable foothold device that better matches shape of the top of a user's foot and can be released if the user needs to move the foothold aside.

Response to Arguments/Remarks

Applicant's remarks filed October 18th, 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The applicant noted that claims 10 and 16 were previously objected to (by a previous examiner) and were indicated to be allowable if rewritten in independent form. However, the current Examiner did not find claims 10 and 16 to be allowable and in fact found prior art anticipating the current claim language and deemed the above rejections necessary.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
